Traffic signal cabinet as art is a nice way to jazz up the community landscape.

Normally the traffic signal is what everyone is looking at, at a signalized intersection. Over the years a lot of cities have authorized the use of the traffic signal cabinets to be artistically adorned by artists.

I for one like when I see all the great work that local artist have done for the public good to help beautify what has been a mundane almost invisible structure. The one above is almost archives this invisible idea, but in a really nice way. It seems that this is a trend that is here to stay. The talent that is out there on work that local display many times is wonderful to see. One of the benefits seems to be that graffiti is reduced on the cabinets. I'm sure you have all noticed or been part of this trend to jazz up the community landscape if you have had some part in this effort thank you for assisting with this effort.
